MAJOR/MINOR DECLARATION
Due by the beginning of sophomore year.
File in the Office of the Registrar.

Selecting a major depends on your goals and interests. Some things to consider:

- Do you enjoy the subject? If you have taken a class in the subject, did you find the readings and homework challenging and enjoyable? If you don't know much about a major, it is advisable to try a class, or two, to introduce yourself to the subject matter.
- What out-of-classroom opportunities does the major offer? Departmental faculty can discuss these opportunities with you. You can also ask other students about their experiences within the major.
- How might your career goals fit within your major? Faculty advisors, within the department, are a good resource for you. They often have graduate school and career opportunity information readily available. They can meet with you and give you good direction.

I understand that a late declaration or change of major could result in the addition of one or more semesters to my stay at Sterling College. This may be necessary to complete all general education and major requirements, as defined in the catalog. I understand that I am encouraged to declare a major by the beginning of my sophomore year in order to be able to complete my desired major in a timely fashion. I understand that, for some majors, it is critical to declare a major during the freshman year, in order to be able to complete all required courses in the proper offered sequence.
